Prayer of Common Confession

Don Lee

O God of mercy, we come to you on this Pentecost, confessing our weaknesses and opening ourselves to your strength. Sometimes, though, we are like those disciples so long ago: huddled in fear of what others will think, of what others will do, of what you, O God, will do. Sometimes we are like passive bystanders, making fun of what we do not understand, tearing down what is sacred to one another, waiting until we are sure it's okay to be real, to be alive in your Spirit. Always, God, you are with us: nudging us like a gentle breeze, stirring us with flames of hope, speaking to us with words engraved in our hearts. And, so we offer ourselves, our whole selves, bruised as we are, to your ever-loving mercy.

(Silent Prayer)

⊗ Words of Assurance

Sisters and brothers in Christ, God's Spirit did not leave us after that first Pentecost. The Spirit is still with us, empowering us to know mercy and grace, forgiveness, and service. In this Spirit, and through Christ, we proclaim the Good News: we are forgiven!

Alleluia! Amen!

Our Father, who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name; thy kingdom come; thy will be done; on earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation; but deliver us from evil. For thine is the kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.
